

Traver Holds Ford For First Degree Murder Saturday

Phoenicia Resident, 76, Enters Not Guilty Plea, His Attorney Asks Hearing Be Held

Ford in Jail

District Attorney Agrees to Request for Adjournment to Await Grand Jury

County Judge Frederick G. Traver, sitting as a committing magistrate, Saturday afternoon held Charles Ford, 76-year-old Phoenicia resident, on an information charging murder, first degree, for a hearing at 10 o'clock on November 2. Ford is charged with having shot to death Harvey W. Clancy in front of Clancy's grill in Phoenicia shortly after 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning over a real estate transaction.

Brought to the county jail by Sergeant James J. Cunningham and State Trooper Walter Keefe, after being questioned at Phoenicia by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux and state troopers, Ford was represented before Judge Traver by Francis Mortocci, Phoenicia attorney, who entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and asked for an adjournment in order to complete an investigation.

Asks Hearing

Mr. Mortocci waived the reading of the information which charged murder, first degree, and asked that a hearing be granted. Mr. Murray consented to the request and Ford was committed to jail pending the examination. He told the court that whether Ford would waive examination on the adjourned date depended upon what his investigation of the circumstances of the crime revealed. There will be no grand jury until December and Mr. Murray agreed to the request for adjournment. Ford appeared slightly nervous when arraigned and fumbled with his pipe and tobacco pouch as he sat through the court proceeding. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray said that Ford had admitted the shooting, which came as a result of a difference in a real estate transaction.

Charles Ford was born at North Lexington, Greene county, Sept. 12, 1862, but had been a resident of Ulster county for many years. Although 76 years old he still had a reputation as a hard hunter and was considered one of the best shots in the Catskills.

Alleged Confession

Ford allegedly confessed to the shooting shortly after his arrest by Corporal Soules. Soules, who operates the state trooper fighting truck had stopped over in Phoenicia over night and was notified of the shooting at the Central Hotel where he stayed. At the time State Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia was out on patrol between Phoenicia and Kingston. Trooper Soules went to the Ford home and there placed Ford under arrest.

Apparently the shooting was witnessed by several people. From the complete story gathered by the officers and District Attorney Murray, who went to Phoenicia and took personal charge of the investigation, Ford came to the grill and barbers shop some time prior to the shooting armed with his repeating shotgun. Mr. Clancy, Charles Malloy, Frank Tyler and Barnett Blakeslee were all in the locality. Mr. Blakeslee had driven his car in front of Clancy's grill and parked it there. In his car was his daughter, Nina Blakeslee, 15, who remained in the car and witnessed the shooting.

Hunting Trip

Arrangements were being made for a hunting trip to Dutchess county Monday. Mr. Blakeslee had brought along a dog which he wanted Mr. Clancy to see. They stepped out of the grill and

Receives Pledges

Many Governors Tell Wage-Hour Administrator of Their Cooperation

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, received pledges of cooperation in enforcement of the new law today from many state governors. The far-reaching labor standards act went into effect at 12:01 this morning, putting a floor under the wages and a ceiling over the hours of an estimated 11,000,000 American workmen.

Andrews had asked the states to help him, at least temporarily, in making certain that interstate industries subject to the law keep proper records showing compliance. He also requested them to send representatives to a conference of state labor officials here November 14 to discuss state wage-hour laws.

Pledges of enforcement aid came, among others, from the governors of Alabama, Iowa, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Utah, and Nevada.

Winter's First Blizzard Hits Mid-West

While the eastern seaboard complained of unseasonably warm weather, winter hit the mid-west with the season's first blizzard. Here's how it felled telephone poles along a snow-banked highway near Rhinelander, Wis. Communication and electric services were disrupted.

Two Incidents Involve Japan, Foreign Powers

Winter Strikes Hard Blow at Middle West

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP)—Snow, gales and sub freezing temperature marked winter's arrival to portions of the middle west during the week-end.

Minnesota, Wisconsin and the upper Michigan peninsula felt the brunt of a storm that disrupted power and communication lines, impeded highway traffic and impelled upper Great Lakes shipping. The snow ranged from wisps in Chicago to eight inches at Ishpeming, Mich. Snowplows went into action on highways near the Wisconsin-Michigan border.

A power failure caused a temporary shutdown of Red Wing, Minn., factories. Phillips, Wis., was without power for 12 hours. Broken telephone and telegraph communication lines isolated several Wisconsin communities.

Customs Dispute With U. S. Over Clearance of Liner; British Also Involved as Result of Bombing

By The Associated Press
Two new international incidents involved Japan with foreign powers today as the China war moved toward new crises and threats of force again entered the remaking of Central Europe's map.

A customs dispute with United States authorities was settled when the Dollar Line agreed to unload silver valued at more than $4,000,000 from the liner President Coolidge at Shanghai. Japanese had refused to clear the ship for San Francisco with the silver cargo, consigned to the Chase National Bank of New York, which the Japanese-sponsored government evidently considered its property.

Bombs from six Japanese planes damaged the superstructure of the little, weakly-armed British gunboat Sandpiper at Changsha, about 200 miles southwest of Hankow.

British naval officials said they "vigorously" protested the bombing but Japanese officials at Tokyo declared it must have been accidental.

In Budapest, well-informed sources said Hungary, after receiving a fifth unacceptable proposal from Czechoslovakia, had set Wednesday as a deadline for the Prague government to comply with her territorial demands.

Unless Czechoslovakia makes a satisfactory reply by then, they said, the Hungarian army would start marching across the border; and the Polish army would start marching into Ruthenia at the same moment.

Official circles in Warsaw, however, declared these reports were "false," asserting the Polish aim was peaceful settlement with Czechoslovakia.

In Prague, meanwhile, Sokol, the largest patriotic organization in Czechoslovakia, approved a resolution urging strict control of Jews and expulsion of some.

Outstanding in yesterday's French senatorial elections was an unmistakable shift to the right, interpreted by supporters of Edouard Daladier as approval of his part in the Munich peace settlement.

Canton, Japanese-captured metropolis of South China, which has been burning since it was occupied Friday, was threatened with obliteration by fires which roared into residential districts after burning out the business sections.

With Japanese closing in on Hankow in a great semi-circle from about 20 miles, the same fate apparently was in store for the provisional capital. In keeping with their "scorched earth and broken tile policy" of leaving nothing useful behind, Chinese began wiring Japanese properties for dynamiting.

China at a Glance

CANTON — Water mains blasted, Japanese capture use dynamite to fight flames sweeping city. Foreign section escapes major damage. Thieves loot shops. Chinese civilians by thousands continue flight. Japanese direct offensive to clear Canton river for invasion deep into southern interior.

HANKOW — Nearest Japanese force 20 miles from Hankow, Chinese threaten to blow up Japanese properties in retaliation. Safety zone mapped. Japanese planes bomb rail centers.

CHANGSHA — British gunboat Sandpiper damaged by bombs from six Japanese planes. None injured.

Lehman Reopens All Forest Areas Closed Last Week

Governor Rescinds Emergency Proclamation Today; Deer Season Extended to November 20

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Governor Lehman today reopened to hunters all forest lands closed last week to save state woodlands from the worst forest fire hazard in 14 years.

The governor rescinded his emergency proclamation which banned hunting in the woods of eighteen Catskill and Adirondack mountain counties on the advice of conservation officials that overnight rains had "done much to help the situation."

Meantime, Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne announced that the deer hunting season legally scheduled to have closed November 15 would be extended to November 20, to compensate for the delay.

Sheriff A. F. Molyneux Stands on His Record

Seeks Re-Election

Abram F. Molyneux, Republican candidate for sheriff, stands squarely on his record for re-election to this office. Sheriff Molyneux has served the citizens of Ulster county for the past term in a manner which must bring commendation from all. The duties of Sheriff of Ulster county have been performed so efficiently and with such a degree of intelligence that his record cannot be challenged. During his term there have been several major criminal cases which have been promptly cleared up with the cooperation of the other city and county officials and today there is not a single important unsolved crime in the county.

It is such efficiency as this which the State Legislature contemplated when the legislature took cognizance of the growing complexities of the office of Sheriff and passed legislation which was endorsed by a vote of the people last fall, making it possible for

Huge Liquor Ring Embraces Ulster, Indictment Shows

Federal Grand Jury Reports 45 Persons Guilty of Defrauding Government of $15,000,000

A liquor ring which operated an illicit trade throughout the eastern section of New York state and Canada included Ulster as well as a number of other neighboring counties as one of its business areas. It was revealed today by the Associated Press.

Forty-four men and one woman were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of defrauding the government of at least $15,000,000 in taxes in conducting the alleged bootleg business, according to the federal authorities and Assistant U. S. Attorney Raymond P. Whearty characterized the case as "one of the biggest the alcohol tax unit has developed against illegal still operations."

The indictment was returned before Federal Judge William Bondy.

Conservative estimates based on the treasury agents' investigation of this case have indicated at least three and a half million gallons of 130-proof alcohol for illicit distribution," Whearty said. The indictment set forth that the bulk of the liquor was shipped between 1931 and 1937 to Detroit, Boston, Buffalo, Newark, New York and Canada.

Federal agents, the indictment said, traced the ring's production plants to Orange, Ulster, Sullivan, Rockland and Dutchess counties, with Newburgh, N. Y., named as the center of the gang's activity.

Last Tuesday 31 other persons were indicted by the same special grand jury on charges of similar activity in Dutchess county. The government charged it had been defrauded of $2,500,000.

Whearty said treasury agents had discovered several blind corporations set up by the defendants to "cloak with respectability" their operations, and that a Newburgh concern was used to purchase molasses, sugar and other raw materials for the operation of the stills.

Whearty said treasury agents, tracing nine companies allegedly involved, found their "headquarters" in abandoned barns and one-story garages. The concerns were created, he said, because treasury regulations forced all dealers in raw materials for liquor to report their monthly business transactions.

Two Drivers Arrested

Saturday the police made two arrests of auto drivers, charging them with double parking. Ernest Seamon of 61 Flatbush avenue was charged with double parking on Pearl street, at Samuel W. Johnson of 98 Hasbrouck avenue of double parking his car on Wall street. The Weiner case was set down for a hearing on Saturday. Mr. Seamon entered a plea of guilty to the charge and said he had left his car in the street to make a business call, which proved longer than he expected. As it was the first time he had ever been arrested Judge Cahill suspended the payment of a $2 fine. Lee Macomber of this city, arrested for public intoxication on Foxhall avenue Saturday night, was fined $3.

State Registration High

Dewey-Lehman Fight Causes Increase

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—The fight being made by Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Manhattan's Republican Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey for the state's highest office has captured the imagination of New York State voters.

A survey today showed that the total number of voters qualified for the November election in representative cities and villages is well above that of 1934, last strictly gubernatorial year.

An all-time record was set in Albany where $2,021 persons became eligible to vote. The previous mark was established in 1936 when 80,997 persons registered. The 1931 mark was 74,511.

In New York city, where the registration period concluded October 15, the total was 2,437,270. This was 459,910 higher than 1934 but 462,915 less than in 1936.

Totals and comparable figures from reporting communities include:

Haver Resigns Post Today as Assistant District Attorney

Attorney Who Has Served Since 1933 Quits Office, He Says to Devote Himself to Law Practice

N. LEVAN HAVER

N. LeVan Haver, who succeeded Assemblyman J. Edward Conway as assistant district attorney when Mr. Conway went to the assembly in 1933, today filed his resignation as assistant district attorney. The resignation was accepted by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and takes effect immediately.

Asked as to his reason for tendering his resignation, Mr. Haver stated that it was because of the pressure of personal matters and in order to take care of the law work in his own office.

Since becoming assistant district attorney, Mr. Haver has appeared in numerous important criminal matters with Mr. Murray and has also conducted the routine business of the office before the grand jury at various times. In addition to the office of assistant prosecuting officer in Ulster county he maintains law offices in the Kingston Trust Company building on Fair street.

No appointment to fill the vacancy was announced immediately. Regarding the resignation of Mr. Haver, District Attorney Cleon B. Murray said: "Mr. Haver's resignation is a distinct loss. His great ability has been of assistance to work of our office."

Silver Back in Vaults

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Chase National Bank, as consignee, said today the $4,000,000 in silver taken off the Dollar liner President Coolidge by Shanghai customs officials "had been returned to vaults of the various Shanghai banks, Chinese and foreign." The bank would not disclose for whom it was acting in the transaction.

Wagner Cites His Programs Today in Local Speech

Deluge Forces U. S. Senator to Speak at Pythian Hall Instead of Appearing Out of Doors

A review of his social and labor program was pointed to as his reason for reelection by United States Senator Robert F. Wagner in a brief talk here today at Pythian Hall.

The senator was originally scheduled to speak at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, but due to the rain the meeting place was changed this morning. The rain also caused a delay in his arrival here and he began his short talk at about 1 o'clock, one hour later than scheduled.

His main objective, the senator said, in his 32 years in public office has been to "make the life of our workers better."

His father had been a laborer, he revealed, and he felt in his youth the need of security for the working people.

"I am not seeking re-election on promises," the senator declared, before briefly reviewing his record at Washington. "I can rely on past performances and it is with this fact in view that I am going before the people."

"This is an unusual day," he continued, "for it is the day on which the wage and hour law goes into effect."

This law he described as the "most unusual thing," the administration has done. The senator reviewed also his part in enactment of the Social Security Act, the Employment Exchange, the Railway Pension Act and others. He told also of his part in "writing in," Section 7-A of the Labor Act and in waging a fight against "the greatest opposition in my career," for enactment of the Labor Relations Act.

Speaking of his part in fighting for Social Security, the senator declared: "Just think of it, 40,000,000 people today hold those cards which entitle them to a pension in their old age."

Appeal Heard at Albany by Five Judges Saturday Results in Order That Flemming's Name Be Restored Within Law

Court's Decision Bears Out Kaufman's Argument That Davide Was Within Law

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court by a decision handed down at Albany on Saturday afternoon reversed the order of Supreme Court Justice Schirick made on October 13, declaring the nomination of Harry H. Flemming on the American Labor Party ticket void.

The appeal was argued before the appellate court on Saturday morning by George F. Kaufman in behalf of Flemming and by William A. Knecher for Chris J. Flanagan.

The decision of the appellate division, which is concurred in by all five of its judges, directs that Flemming's name be restored to the American Labor Party ballot as its duly nominated candidate for surrogate.

The litigation out of which the appeal arose was commenced by Chris J. Flanagan, the Democratic nominee for surrogate, against Harry H. Flemming, the Republican nominee for that office, following the primary election on September 20. In that election Flemming received 15 votes for the American Labor Party nomination for surrogate, and Flanagan received 17 votes. The Ulster county board of elections declared this to be the result of the official canvass, and issued a certificate of nomination to Flanagan.

Flanagan thereupon instituted legal proceedings before Justice Schirick to review the nomination, claiming that several votes cast in favor of Flemming throughout the county were canvassed and tallied illegally, including that of John Davide in Election District No. 3 of the town of Ulster at East Kingston.

Upon the first hearing of this matter before the court George F. Kaufman, attorney for Flemming, contended that Flanagan's papers were insufficient in law to justify an inquiry by the court into the legality of any poll. Judge Schirick upheld this contention and directed that the case be tried before him on October 11, but that evidence therein be limited solely to the circumstances surrounding the casting and counting of Davide's ballot.

At the trial the testimony showed that when Davide cast his vote at the East Kingston polling place three of the four election officials of that election district were absent from their posts, and that Davide had asked for and received assistance in preparing his ballot from the one election inspector who was present upon his sworn statement that he was "not able to write American good enough" to write in legibly the names of the persons for whom he desired to vote. Flanagan's attorneys claimed that because of these and other irregularities Davide's ballot was improperly cast and counted and that it should be rejected by the court.

Decision October 13

On October 13 Judge Schirick rendered his decision, wherein he held that the absence of the election officers at the time Davide's ballot was cast and the manner in which assistance in voting had been rendered to Davide by the election inspector, who was present, constituted irregularities.

Dewey Invades Republican Candidate Carries His Campaign Tonight Over to Brooklyn

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Cheered by a heavy upstate registration, Thomas E. Dewey carries his Republican gubernatorial campaign tonight to Brooklyn, a Democratic stronghold.

After his usual Monday night state-wide broadcast address, during which he is scheduled to speak on the Democratic organizations of Albany and Rensselaer counties, the Manhattan district attorney will attend four Brooklyn rallies. His headquarters said the youthful racket buster would discuss reports of political corruption there—reports that already have led Gov. Lehman, Dewey's opponent, to appoint John Harlan Amen, an ace federal prosecutor, to head an inquiry into Brooklyn law enforcement.

Tomorrow Dewey, who has stressed as one of the main points of his platform the need of ending any alliance between crime and politics, will renew his upstate campaign with speaking engagements at Albany and Troy.

Josh Williams Gets 10 to 20 Years at Dannemora Prison; Other Defendants Sentenced

Josh Williams, charged with the killing of Charles Jones at Goldrick's Landing a week ago Sunday, following an argument over whether Ross or Goldrick made the better brick, was sentenced to a term of from 10 to 20 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison when he came up for sentence in County Court this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Williams pleaded guilty to an indictment charging manslaughter, first degree, last week, and Judge Traver postponed sentence until this afternoon. Williams and Jones had an argument over which yard was making better brick, and when they left the Evans boarding house where they had been eating breakfast, Williams struck Jones, knocking him down. When Jones rose he was again struck down and in the third attempt to get up Williams struck Jones over the head with a short club, inflicting fatal injuries.

Williams was arrested at his boarding place as he was preparing a leave. Sheriff Molyneux's men placed the man under arrest within a few minutes of the crime. Williams admitted his guilt.

Other sentences pronounced when District Attorney Clonk H. Murray moved the cases for trial were:

Industrial, Rail Stocks Continued Advance Last Week

Industrial and rail stocks continued their advance last week, the former showing a net gain of over two points; utilities were off for the week, with a net loss of 0.54 point. In Saturday's short session, 1,126,630 shares changed hands, with industrial making a gain for the day of 1.96 points, to 154.11 in the Dow-Jones averages. Rails were up 0.46 point for the day, to 31.69 and utilities advanced 0.16 point, to 23.69.

Business news generally the past week, with the exception of reports on department store sales, has reflected an unseasonable weather, were encouraging. Especially pleasing were the continued indications that men were going back to work. Reports from all over the country were to that effect, especially in the automobile production centers and the U. S. Department of Labor stated that placements in September reached the highest point during the year. Government and business agencies seen cooperating to reduce as much as possible enforced idleness and unless something unforeseen happens it is believed that the index curve of employment will continue to rise for some time. There are, it is said, reductions noted in WPA pay-rolls in various parts of the country and from Toledo, Ohio, comes a statement that in that city 21 men and women daily are leaving the WPA to go into private industry.

Rapid progress has been made, it is stated, in the proposed program for construction of a billion dollars worth of electric steam generating plants at numerous points throughout the country, with national defense a moving factor in the proposition.

The government, cooperating with private utilities. Official announcement will possibly be made within the next week, of an agreement on the construction program, with the first phase probably calling for an expenditure of as much as $250,000,000 for equipment, construction of plants and distribution lines. It is seen as likely that when the plan goes under way the 1929 record for volume of electric power equipment may be approached.

As has been pointed out, automobile manufacturers are revising their production schedules upward with public demand for the new models likely to be better than was at first expected. This is accounting for a large share of the increase in employment, among others General Motors having announced plans for hiring of 35,000 men within a short time. Stocks of both new and used cars are at a low point, dealers report, and many are having difficulty in getting new cars ordered.

The petroleum industry seems to be favoring more government control, as a possible aid for the present unfavorable price situation; this despite the fact that experience so far has shown that government control over industry has at the best produced but temporary stabilization of prices.

As a result of the outlay of public funds on engineering construction continues to climb, although private awards for the past week were relatively low those of year ago. Residential construction, however, continues to hold up and activity in this field during the coming months is looked for.

The Fair Labor Standards Act became effective this morning. It is expected to raise the pay of about 750,000 workers, and bring shorter hours or overtime pay to 1,500,000 or more. Altogether some 11,000,000 workers in industrial industry are affected by the law.

The Household Finance Corp. had net income of $4,644,555, or $5.64 common share, for the nine months ending September 30. In the same period last year net was $5.69 a share.

Chances that several of the leading railroads may pay dividends before the end of the year are seen as greatly improved as a result of the increase in carloadings and revenues during the past few months.

Workers Complete 86 Miles of Roads Throughout Ulster

Eighty-six miles of farm-to-market roads, representing a score of WPA projects throughout Ulster county, were completed this summer, according to a resume from the offices of Lester W. Hersov, Ulster WPA administrator, and William B. Daley, Director of Area 4.

With the exception of 3.09 miles of bituminous macadam all were secondary roads with gravel top. In addition to being farm-to-market roads all these reconstructed roads were also mail routes or school bus routes. Several were important links connecting main state highways.

Of the two score projects completed, about half were begun early in 1938 and the remainder last year. Many furnished all-winter employment for relief workers during months when final work on many projects could not be done but where preliminary excavation and land clearing was possible.

In mileage, the largest amount was completed in the town of Lloyd, a total of 17.15 miles. Marlborough is second with seven town roads furnishing 16.3 miles completed. In Plattekill, 13.72 miles were finished. Seven and a half miles of Cherrytown road were done in Rochester township and six miles in Marlborough. Other townships had lesser distances. Among them was 1.7 miles at Ulster Landing and one mile of Patch road in Saugerties, finished last month.

Two outstanding county jobs exclusive of road work, was Hasbrouck Memorial Park. Near Palitz, and two sections of a new sewage disposal plant in the village of Saugerties.

Hasbrouck Park fronts the State Normal School at New Paltz and is of inestimable value in beautification of the school property. Formerly it was merely a rural area of practically waste land, rocky, overgrown with brush and more or less a dump. WPA gangs removed several rocky knolls, filled numerous gullies, cleared out rank underbrush, leveled the entire area and landscaped the whole. A baseball diamond and wide grassy campus resulted.

In connection with Hasbrouck Park improvement, Hasbrouck avenue flanking it, was regraded and paved. A concrete walk was laid and several hundred feet of Consolateral stone wall erected. Considerable repaving and redecorating was done within the school buildings.

The two completed parts of Saugerties' sewage disposal plant are concrete grit chambers in Bridge and Ripley streets. The main or so-called Dublin street plant, is now under construction. Figures furnished by Arthur F. Hallinan, WPA superintendent of construction for Ulster county, indicate that about 1,200 relief workers are now employed. Of these 550 are working on county-wide projects and the remainder within the city of Kingston.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 16 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

'Last Words' Once in Demand

Centuries ago in England, the dying words of well-known persons were often published through popular demand. Hence when Richard Baxter, the famous divine, lost his wife in 1681, he published a broadsheet on the "Last Words of Mrs. Baxter." Seeing its immense sale, says Collier's Weekly, the printer composed and published another called "More Last Words." But Rev. Baxter stopped its sale with a handbill, stating "Mrs. Baxter did not say anything else."

Richard Gardner Dies on Saturday At Ulster Park

Richard J. Gardner, a resident of Ulster Park for the past 35 years, died Saturday evening at his home after a long illness.

Mr. Gardner came to Ulster county from Bayside, L. I., and for many years operated a florist business at Ulster Park where he also engaged in the farming business until his health became such that he was compelled to give up work.

Born at Petersfield, Hampshire

He had been a member of Ulster Grange, No. 969, P. of H., of Ulster Park for many years and was a past master of the Grange, having served at various times as Master.

The Holy Name Society of the Sacred Heart Church will assemble at the home this evening at 8 o'clock to recite the Rosary.

Mr. Gardner is survived by his wife, Della Gordon Gardner; a son, William Gordon Gardner, of Newport News, Va.; one daughter, Catherine E. Gardner, a member of the editorial staff of The Free-

SHERIFF MOLYNEAUX'S RECORD

When crime is discovered, promptness and intelligence on the part of authorities are safeguards of the people of the county. The chief police officer of a county is the sheriff and for that office the official should be a man of experience, good judgment and clear understanding. Realizing this, the legislature, with a Democratic Senate and a Republican Assembly, twice voted legislation designed to permit a sheriff to succeed himself. This action of the legislature was ratified by the voters of the state last year by a large majority.

Sheriff Molyneux has proven that he possesses these necessary qualities to a marked degree and he is the type of man that the legislators wanted to keep in office. The Republican candidate will continue to render the same efficient service that has marked his term of office. During his term there have been several major crimes in Ulster county and they have been cleared up with the cooperation of other county officers, and city authorities. Today there is not a single important unsolved crime in the county.

Standing squarely on his record, Sheriff Molyneux should be assured of election by a huge majority. His record as regarding public office as a public trust and as rendering the faithfulness the people have a right to expect is appreciated by residents of the entire county. While standing on his record he also can point to many improvements, some of which are worthy of special mention.

During his office, Sheriff Molyneux had installed a blotter system upon which every official act is recorded and preserved and also permanent records of arrests and accidents. There also are now in the sheriff's office records of all visitors at the jail and records of all persons who apply for lodging in the detention block.

A police radio also was installed, which makes for greater efficiency.

Placing the men of the office in uniform was another forward step toward greater safety and better service.

There also is a photographic department and a fingerprint card system. The importance of these additions for the proper enforcement of the law is an accepted fact.

PROBLEM OF YOUTH

Youth's basic problem today, says a woman educator, is not sex nor the economic situation, but an answer to the current by-word, "So what?" The growing boys and girls, she insists, must have an antidote for their cynicism, and "it is up to the parents to develop a worth-while philosophy of living in their children."

It is hard, though, to develop any living faith in a generation of children who feel insecure and superfluous. In millions of cases, as they come to an age at which they should be engaged in constructive work and taking care of themselves, they are stalled in forced idleness. They naturally grow restless and discontented, feel that they are not wanted, and lose hope and ideals. Surely the remedy for this state of mind, and the aimless drifting it invites, is to get the boys and girls a definite, constructive share in the social order by providing jobs for them. If that were done by our floundering society, they would do the rest for themselves.

Our young people need, first of all, to use their energies and make a place for themselves in our social order. Getting useful employment for them is the most important thing for them and for the rest of us.

AIR LINES TO THE RESCUE

The story of airplanes in the hurricane disaster a few weeks ago deserves wide telling. With highways and railroads blocked and communication lines down, the commercial air lines had a wonderful chance to show their stuff, and made the most of it.

First, they kept the mail moving. Regular first class mail was carried as air mail. The first two emergency trips between New York and Boston on September 22 carried 5,300 and 4,500 pounds of mail. The total carried during the emergency was 272,000 pounds on that route alone. Fifteen-minute schedules were maintained. For a few days first-class mail was more rapid than the telegraph.

After the mail, they carried phenomenal loads of freight and passengers. One line reported 9,000 passengers in a period in which it would ordinarily have had only 800. Many of them were first-time flyers. Much of the freight carried consisted of serums and other emergency supplies rushed into the stricken areas to prevent epidemic and care for the sick.

This fine job was done by pooling equipment and personnel and cooperating without petty rivalries. There can hardly be too much praise and gratitude for its accomplishment.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

STUDY OF OUR BEHAVIOR

It has been well said that this face and body each of us presents to the world is really not our true self. It is just like a coat or cloak which others see and judge us by. Our words and actions can be really better than the world sees, but with most of us we present our best side, our show window as it may be called. While we realize that we do not present our real selves to the world we do not realize that we do not really know what our real selves are like. All we know is what might be called our thoughts and actions during our conscious moments.

There is however another part of us a very big part, that we ourselves do not know and this unknown part of us may make us behave a little differently from normal. This different action or behavior on our part is said to be due to this unconscious (not subconscious) part of us.

The study of our behavior due to our unconscious self is what is called psychoanalysis.

As a matter of fact, this unconscious part is really the biggest or most important part. "It is more important for us than the conscious part, first, because it covers a far larger range, both as to time and extent, reaching back into our life before we were born and into the lives of our ancestors, and second, because it is free from any interference or hindrance by us, and therefore when it is made to speak it tells the frank and unvarnished truth."

A psychoanalyst is one who by patience and skill makes us answer directly and without prepared thought the significant questions he asks. The words in these questions arouse certain words or expressions of thought in our minds. The psychoanalyst can interpret the words or expressions which come from our unconscious mind, explains their meanings fully and how these thoughts or expressions became a part of us and have caused certain behavior on our part. When this is all explained to us we can see the reason for our acquiring this abnormal belief or thought and why we must get rid of it if we are to behave in a normal manner.

Neurosis

Are you worried about an ailment which you really do not have? Are you bothered by "symptoms" that medical tests do not reveal? Send for Dr. Barton's tremendously interesting and helpful booklet entitled "Neurosis No. 103." It explains how the cure of ailments is accomplished when none apparently exists. The Characters

Kathleen Gregory goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Gregory mine shaft from MacDonald.
 Donald MacDonald has refused the right-of-way, hates the Gregorys.
 Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday, Donald discovered Kathleen's identity and is furious. Beatrice goes through the papers in Balm's cottage and accidentally sets them on fire. Kathleen injures her hands putting out the blaze.

Chapter 22
Golden Cards

ENROUTE to the hospital, Kathleen's father questioned the pain and the cause of the injury. Kathleen remained silent, and Beatrice's face was flushed.

"Are you both dumb?" he cried. "Here I go to the mine for Balm and find he's left shift for the first time in his life. I come after him and find you two at the house, one of you injured. Can't you tell me what happened?"

Kathleen's relief in knowing her father had not inspired Beatrice's trip, in fact had no knowledge of it, was so great that she sought to break the news to him.

"Bad news, Dad, there was an accident, a fire. I tried to put it out, that's how I was burned. The letters were burned."

Angus sank back into the seat, the car slithering to one side. "What caused the fire?" he asked. "I did," snapped Beatrice. "I don't give a hoot about the papers, it's Kathy's hands."

Kathleen glanced at the tears coursing down her aunt's cheeks. "Don't cry, Aunt Bee, I've nursed so many people in this town it's going to be fun to be nursed. Only now, it's more important than ever that I remain Cleo Riley."

"You mean you think you can still—"

Kathleen stifled the thought immediately. "No, darling, I can't vamp the gentleman. I can't steal his heart because he hasn't any, but I have another plan. Just give me time—"

"There isn't much more time, daughter, we're nearly through. The last of May sees us closing."

"Then until that time, Dad? And will you give me free rein?"

Angus Gregory sighed deeply. "There's nothing else I can do."

"And Dad," she pressed her advantage point, "you see now how important it is to have the Gregory mine doctor made available to the people don't you? You'll be setting a precedent by taking Cleo Riley there."

"Yes," he agreed. "I'll fix that up... not too much pain."

Kathleen grinned at him, a very watery grin. "I can take it with a grain like that in view."

Mayne brought the news to the MacDonalds' table. She served it with the fruit cocktail.

"She's in the hospital and the doctor says she has to stay."

Mrs. MacDonald glanced at her son as though to remind him that Cleo Riley was responding to his demand to remove herself from his home. "What happened, Mayne?" she asked.

"Put out a fire with her hands. In Balm's house."

"But what was she doing in Balm's house?"

"Your housekeeper told Jane Arthur, when she came to bring Miss Cleo some watermelon pickles, that she had seen that Gregory woman sneaking down to Balm's by the back way and she guessed Miss Cleo saw her, too, 'cause Miss Cleo flew out of the house like fury at high tide, and took right after her."

"Strange," murmured Mrs. MacDonald.

"Hardly, in view of what we know is wanted," countered her son, bitterly.

'Poor Spit-Fire'

WHEN Mayne returned with the next course she had fresh news. "Mrs. Campbell heard Mrs. MacBride yelling in Grandma Barkus' that when Miss Cleo fainted while they were dressing her hands, this Gregory woman threw a fit. She said it was all her fault."

"That settles it," announced Mrs. MacDonald. "We're going down to see that child."

"Go down... on that mine property... are you out of your mind, mother?"

"And what's more," continued his mother ignoring his question, "you are going with me. We'll make sure the Gregorys are at home, then—"

Kathleen floated in a nirvana, induced by a hypodermic. It was an extremely nice world. Nothing much mattered. Sometimes the nurses floated too, and the furniture.

And sometimes the world wasn't so nice. A nurse would appear and grip her wrists, another nurse would appear with a spray and there would be a few moments of excruciating pain.

"I'm sure the doctor won't mind, we won't stay out moment."

That voice came during a period bound, has a shorter coat of hair, but has almost the same type of skull as the Afghan.

Afghan hounds are heavier than greyhounds, and because of the extra avoirdupois, are not as fleet-footed as dogdom's fastest member. Every inch of the Afghan designates aristocracy and refinement. These dogs keep their narrow head poised high atop of a well arched neck. A knot of silky hair adorns the top of their skull. The muzzle is long like the greyhound and saluki, while the jaw is also straight and a punishing one.

The dog is well equipped for speed, inasmuch as the legs of Afghans are long and muscular. The front legs are straight as an arrow. Afghans are narrow at the shoulders, which is another asset for celerity. Their ribs are well sprung and the extreme tuck-up in hind quarters is much like the greyhound, and their hind legs are especially long from the hips.

of sheer happiness. A woman's voice; the woman who lived in the other half of the Gregory house, Mrs. MacDonald.
 "But we're just going to—well, all right," said the nurse.
 Kathleen giggled. Donald MacDonald was standing on his head and his eyes were as round as blue saucers.

Then came the grip of her wrists. Tears streamed from Kathleen's eyes; she gritted her teeth. The nurses floated out taking Mrs. MacDonald with them. Donald floated over to the bedside.

"Poor little spit-fire," he said. "A tough break."

"She didn't mean to," Kathleen hastened to tell him. She must make these MacDonalds know about the Gregorys. "She didn't understand the integrity of spirit and all... I didn't..." her voice faded.

The following afternoon the nurses walked and the furniture remained stationary. They were reducing the injection content.

The pain was a steady pulsing reality; the wet puffs upon which her palms rested felt like needles.

"Ruth," Kathleen whispered to the nurse, "did the MacDonalds visit me, or was that part of my crazy dreams?"

The nurse laughed. "They visited you and I thought Kit-Smyth was going to have apoplexy."

Kathleen closed her eyes. What had she said to Donald? Why couldn't she remember? Well, she'd soon learn from his attitude. And what had he said to her? Something, she couldn't remember the words but they were tender.

Balm ended all conjecture over the fire with a lucid explanation. "I'm inclined both Miss Riley and Miss Gregory to visit my cot at any time the door was always unlocked. Miss Riley, seeing the other lady going down, followed, hoping to interest her in the Gregory cots. Miss Gregory dropped a cigarette on some old papers, neither noticed anything until the flames were high, then Miss Riley beat them out with her hands. A brave lass."

"The Human Element"

KATHLEEN returned to the Gregory house a heroine, and guest of Miss Beatrice Gregory. The Gregorys were leaving the following day but that evening father and daughter had a satisfying talk.

"It's a big responsibility to head a corporation like ours, my dear," he told her. "You can't run a mine with the cost of taking out ore, smelting and transportation more than the value received. Sometimes you become so involved in trying to find that line of balance in the market, you forget the human element involved. And when you see the end before you, and know that all of these people, not just the miners, are depending upon your wisdom for their livelihood, you... well you're baffled. A mild word for your feelings. I'll admit I didn't know conditions here were as bad as they are. It's useless to correct them now. We'll just have to wait."

Kathleen nodded and felt the responsibility her father had carried had been transferred to her shoulders. She understood him better now. Just as she was slipping when most deeply hurt, he was gruff, Beatrice, like the porcupine Bridget had accused her of resembling, threw her quills at random in her moments of despair.

It wasn't quills she threw the next day. Kathleen had told them goodby reluctantly and the moment the car was out of sight, saw little Laura MacBride rushing toward the big house, stumbling, falling into the snowdrifts, scrambling up and rushing on.

"Miss Cleo," she called, as she reached the veranda. "Looky, looky, it happened just like in the fairy tale. She riz right up out of the mine."

The child waved an envelope before Kathleen's nose.

There was a Christmas card inside, a golden card with a slit and from this protruded a check. Kathleen took it. "To Thomas MacBride, one hundred dollars." The signature was Kathleen Gregory's and after the name, the stamp, The Golden Girl.

"And every man with a family got one and every man who doesn't got a family, he got fifty dollars," cried the little girl, jumping up and down.

"And down she came in and nodded and when Laura had rushed homeward with the precious card, she explained. 'Beatrice wired New York for the cards and checks. Your mother's secretary supplied your signature. Beatrice had the money needed to cover the checks placed in your account.'"

At dawn at the MacDonald Hotel, Mayne relayed the information to Donald MacDonald. "Sure is a joke on the folks that thought Miss Cleo was the Golden Girl," she exclaimed. "Lucy McIntosh was on the porch and she said Miss Cleo was more surprised than the Gregory folks. Not the checker, because Miss Cleo could not have signed them if she wanted to; her with her poor blessed hands."

Looking Around

THE next day was clear and sunny and fresh.

"The sun shines so brightly in Puddle Muddle," cackled Top Notch, as he took his head from under his wing and crowed to the others that it was time to awake.

"The air is jollyer here than anywhere," bleated Sweet Face.

"It's nice to see the world because then we know we love this best," quacked Mrs. Quacko, as she waddled down to her pond.

The Puddle Muddlers were too busy to do anything in particular. They kept running from one spot to the other, finding, nothing changed except that weeds had grown and so had the grass and that there were cobwebs hanging from Willy Nilly's ceiling and in many other places, too.

"The pond is so beautiful," quacked the ducks and they felt their cool water once more.

"The meadow is so refreshing," bleated Sweet Face, as he sank down in the long grass.

"My house really is quite perfect in its way," said Willy Nilly, even though he saw the cobwebs and knew that his garden was full of weeds.

"Bats have visited the cave," growled the bats, "but that only shows their good sense."

"My General Store needs attention," cackled Top Notch. "But it really is the store of a fine business rooster and there is no mistake about that."

So the Puddle Muddlers wandered over Puddle Muddle, and Rip's ears flapped in the wind as he ran from place to place.

"We'll get to work soon," said Willy Nilly, as he stroked his right side whisker, "but for the moment we must just enjoy Puddle Muddle."

And that they could all do with ease!

Even the air seemed to welcome them and everything that they looked at reminded them of good times they had had in the past, of good times they would have in the future. Puddle Muddle was home.

Sheriff Molyneux Stands on Record

A Sheriff to succeed himself in office. Prior to last year a State law prohibited such action.
Realizing that the duties of a Sheriff are constantly becoming more and more exacting and that a man of experience can conduct the duties of office more effectively the legislature, with a Democratic Senate and a Republican Assembly, twice voted legislation designed to permit a Sheriff to succeed himself. This action of the legislature was ratified by the voters of the state last year by a large vote.

Abram F. Molyneux, the Republican candidate, is a man of the type the legislature had in mind, a man of good sound judgment and experience who can, as he has in the past, administer the duties of the office of Sheriff in an intelligent and efficient manner.

No longer are the duties of Sheriff confined to criminal work or the simpler civil matters, but intricate questions which require prompt and experienced judgment are constantly arising.

A Review of His Work
A review of Sheriff Molyneux's tenure of office will convince any citizen that he is competent, efficient and at all times has the welfare of the public of the county foremost as his guide to his duty. Prior to becoming connected with the office as a deputy sheriff and jailer he was engaged in business and he has brought to the office that business ability which has served him in good stead in placing the office on a sound and systematic basis.

One of his first official acts when elected to the office was to establish a police blotter system upon which every official act is recorded and preserved for future reference. A system for filing reports, automobile accident records and other data, which may be referred to at any future time, was installed and has been found to be of invaluable aid many times since. Until his administration no such permanent record was ever kept. Now from the records of the office it is possible to immediately turn to a report file and tell the exact date and minute of the day a transaction was reported.

A second important improvement was the installation of a police radio. This made for greater efficiency in the office and has paid for the installation cost through the saving in telephone calls. A demonstration of the efficiency of the radio was shown only recently when a murder took place at Goldrick's Landing. Two deputies were on a case of minor importance a few miles away. Notice of the murder was received and through the cooperation of the Kingston police department a radio message was sent out. The deputies received the message, reported to Sheriff Molyneux by telephone for instructions and in three minutes were on their way to the scene of the murder and in 35 minutes had made an arrest and procured a statement from the defendant. This is but one instance where radio has played an important part in detection of crime.

Placing the men of the office in uniform, as is done in other counties, was another forward step toward greater safety and better service. Among the reasons for this is the need of uniformed men in directing traffic, and the sheriff is frequently called on to do this in case of accidents or to direct heavy summer traffic. It is practically impossible to tell a "hitch-hiker" from an officer unless such officer is uniformed. In the case of stopping cars for investigation of "hit and run" driver cases the traveling public pays little attention to a signal to pause unless the man be in uniform and in traffic regulation little heed is given to a man not in uniform.

To give further efficiency in the detection of crime Sheriff Molyneux also installed a photographic department, which has paid for the installation costs through a saving in photographic bills. There is no more positive proof at the scene of a crime or an accident than a photograph taken while the evidence is fresh.

Sheriff Molyneux had a man on his staff instructed in the use of the equipment and there is no extra cost to the county. Prepared night and day to record photographic evidence, several times proof of the greatest importance has been recorded when officers arrived at the scene of a crime or accident. Such photographic evidence taken while the scene is undisturbed is of greater weight than pictures made several hours later.

In conjunction with the photographic department there is also a fingerprint card system which is accompanied by a photograph of all criminals at the time of conviction. This system is recognized as of greatest importance by federal and state police departments and presents a record for all time of local convictions. As a result of this system several men with "records" have been detected by the local officers who might otherwise have escaped detection.

A "register" of all visitors at the jail is kept. This record permanently shows who called and when to see every prisoner in jail. This record forms an important part of the case history.

Record of all persons who apply for a night's lodging in the detention block is also made. A record of their name, address, occupation, where they came from and where they are going forms an instructive record. Whether the applicant is married, lives with his wife or not is also recorded, and while the information sought is not compulsory, refusal of a "check" gives such information is considered grounds for suspicion and investigation. If the information is denied the applicant is refused the privilege of sleeping in the jail. By this system several criminals have been apprehended and turned over to other authorities and several runaway boys have been located.

Cooperation With Authorities
One thing which has made the administration of Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux so successful is the 100 per cent cooperation between his office and the Kingston city police and state police. On assuming office he saw to it that his office gave every cooperation and in turn he has received full cooperation from the city and state police.

In the investigation of every major crime since he has been in office he has always called in the state police and sought the aid of the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation. It has been this close cooperation between departments which has given the taxpayers the best possible protection. Not only in crime detection but in civil matters Mr. Molyneux's office has always cooperated. During several serious floods and in instances where other calamities fell, his office has responded to calls for aid. Recently during the county-wide brick-yard strike his office was called upon to secure men to maintain order along the river front. Brick-makers, their employees and union officials agree that the presence of uniformed men in the vicinity of the yards had a quieting effect upon any striker who may have been inclined to create disorder. Presence of the deputies undoubtedly preserved peace and quiet.

It has been the policy of Sheriff Molyneux and his men to maintain a courteous attitude toward the public. His one instruction most explicit, has been to accord courteous treatment in either civil or criminal investigations to all and never to display authority needlessly.

Always on the Job
Since assuming office he has given his time 100 per cent to the job, had been daily at the office and Sheriff Molyneux has personally gone out on every job when the case seemed of unusual importance. Personally he has apprehended criminals sought for serious offenses and it cannot be said of Sheriff Molyneux or his men that they ever refused to respond to a call for aid. A man is constantly at the office ready to respond to any emergency call and only when such man is arrested out on a call is it necessary to dispatch a special deputy on the job.

Throughout his administration Sheriff Molyneux has worked on the theory that the taxpayers are entitled to every service which his office might render and that the utmost in protection should be accorded by his office, and it has been with that end in view he and his staff have labored.

With some 500 laws pertaining to a sheriff's duties and his work, it takes a man of experience and ability to administer the office as it has been during Sheriff Molyneux's term. Experienced in police work and familiar with the laws regulating the civil work of his office he has been able to conduct his duties throughout his term without a serious error which might reflect upon his office or its operations. Only experience and familiarity with the regulations governing his office could make such a record possible.

By returning Sheriff Molyneux to office the people of the county can be assured of a continuance of this effective service.

HOLD CANAL SPY SUSPECTS

Hymn Services Well Attended

The dedication services of the new devotional hymnals at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Sunday evening attracted a crowd of more than 150.

The new hymnals are being paid for by the members of the enthusiastic audiences who are attending the popular congregational "hymn sings" each Sunday evening.

Vernon Miller conducts the singing with Mrs. A. Allison presiding at the organ, and Mrs. Raymond Rignall at the piano. Mrs. Arnold Swain of Newburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fatum, of this city, favored the congregation with special musical numbers. The attendance of the large choir added much to the evening service.

These Sunday evening programs are proving popular. A cordial invitation is extended to all people of the city who are not in attendance at other church services to be present. A special program of music featuring favorite hymns of famous people will be presented soon. Announcement of this service will appear in the newspapers.

On Tuesday, November 1, the choir will give a concert in Epworth Hall, Harrison Stocum and Ronald Swain of Newburgh will be the featured artists. This will be a public concert and the choir hopes to welcome a large audience.

Protona, Single-Celled Creatures
Protona is the name given to all single-celled creatures, some microscopic some as big as a half dollar. They vary among themselves and may be as different as a man and lobster, both of which have many cells, says the Washington Post. Some are beneficial and serve as food for other animals. Others combine when dead to form chalk and sandstone. Still others cause dangerous diseases in men and animals.

'Jitterbugs' Organize
St. Bonaventure, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—College "Jitterbugs" and "Anti-Jitterbugs" wrangled today over whether swing music was an aid to "culture." A "Jitterbug" club claiming 138 members prepared to battle "Anti-Jitterbug Union Local No. 1" over whether "swing" or "sweet" music should be played at St. Bonaventure College dances. The "Anti-Jitterbug" Union, composed of 137 upperclassmen, organized last week and served a notice on the sophomores demanding "Jitterbugging" in any manner or form be absolutely prohibited at the sophomore snow ball November 21.

Death Toll Reaches 18
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—New York state's week-end accident toll jumped to 18 today as returns from the last two days straggled in. Ten persons were killed in automobile accidents, three burned to death in a fire in Ogdensburg, two drowned when their automobiles plunged into deep waters, one fell to death from a mountain trail and another from a scaffold while a third was killed by an accidental rifle discharge.

SCOTTIE
Known variously in early Scottish history as Skye terrier, Highland, Cairn, and Scots terrier, although that dog bore no resemblance to Skyes and Cairns of today. Nicknamed the "die-hard" for stout heart and unquenchable love for sport. Extremely independent.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST...

AND SO IS HE

LIKE humans, dogs have a complicated set of nerves. But dogs are kinder to their nerves than we. They rest when they need rest...while we plunge ahead with our hurry and worry—straining our nerves to keep up with the fast pace. We can't turn back to the natural paces of life like an animal, but we can protect, soothe, and calm our nerves. Smoking a Camel can be your pleasant method for breaking nerve tension. Camels are mild, with the flavor of a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Smokers find Camel's mild tobaccos delightfully soothing—to the nerves.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE ADVISE
"Let up—light up a Camel"

DID YOU KNOW:
—that tobacco plants are "topped" when they put out their seed-head? That this improves the quality of leaf tobacco? That most cigarette tobacco is harvested by "priming"—removing each leaf by hand? Camel buyers know where choice grades of tobacco are—those that cure nicely—the mild, ripe, fragrant tobaccos. Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS...Turkish and Domestic.

Wins Contest

Last Friday evening, the Glasco A. C. held a dance at the Firemen's Hall. The highlight of the evening was a shag contest which was won by Miss Kay Perry of Kingston and Frank Secreto. The feminine member of the dance team was given a permanent wave, donated by the Crystal Beauty Parlor. Music was furnished by the Jitterbugs, a newly organized orchestra composed of the A. C. members.

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Fay Bainter sits in the sun. She's wearing a knockabout dress. Pink sweater, nondescript skirt. Her brown hair, graying, is mussed because she frequently pushes it back with a careless, practical hand. She isn't wearing rouge, or lipstick, or make-up of any kind. She isn't being glamorous. She's being Fay Bainter at home, on a day off.

She sits in the sun, on the divan in the beach house living room, and the ocean is behind her, its booming muffled by the closed door. The light is the most unflattering possible, but she can stand it. She isn't beautiful. She isn't even pretty. I take that back. Fay Bainter is beautiful.

Not in looks. It's in a combination of things. Naturalness, first. Sincerity. Humor. Intelligence. Character. Oh, well—charm. She has a 15-year-old boy, Reg Jr., just gone back to school in the east after a big California summer.

THE thing you can't help noticing about Miss Bainter, very soon, is that she's more Reg Jr.'s mother and Reg (sr.) Venable's wife than she is a movie star.

Pictures? Oh, yes, pictures, of course. "White Banners" turned the trick. She's ever so grateful to it and right now she's grateful to have escaped from it. She was afraid she'd have to keep on playing martyred, noble women indefinitely. She had just done another, in "Arkansas Traveler," with Bob Burns, when "The Shining Hour" came along and plunged her healthily and happily into unpleasantness.

MISS Bainter won't be typed. Not when she's as interested in "interesting" characters as she is.

She was disappointed when she didn't get a role in "The Toy Wife." Originally she was in it, you know—in the script of Zoe Akins, who wrote a part with her in mind. If you try to guess which part, you'll never. It was the role of "Pick," the black faithful of Louis Rainer. Fay Bainter wanted to play it, for all it was worth, in blackface. Studio wouldn't let her, but that's the only reason she didn't. I say she won't be typed.

Miss Venus Makes Jap Police Frown

Fall Outfit Ordered to Protect Public Morals.

TOKYO—The beautiful Venus de Milo is having her troubles in Japan just now.

She has run afoul of the police and is charged with non-concealment.

The famous statue stands in one of Tokyo's favorite restaurants. Since this is wartime, the police argued, public morals must be protected, so that the people can keep their mind on their work. Officers said it was natural that Venus should conspire to defeat this purpose.

So they ordered a new fall outfit for her.

It is a demure creation of Alice blue rayon, sprinkled with white polka dots. Admittedly, it doesn't go very well with the liquid Grecian robes that flow around the statue's lower limbs. But the police are satisfied.

Not so the owner of the restaurant who paid 100 yen for Venus and, in his own words, has "grown quite fond of her."

Tried Bath Towel. At first, he said, the officers demanded he cover his Venus with any material at hand. When he protested he had nothing, they took a large bath towel and draped it over her shapely shoulder.

"Later, I received permission to put on something less ridiculous. I don't know when this nonsense will end," he said.

Apparently, it has not ended yet. Other restaurants and tearooms reported police had ordered the removal of nudes, painted by famous masters.

To the Japanese nudity is no novelty. So this is all very mystifying. In summer many male Japanese appear on Tokyo streets attired in their underwear. At public beaches men swim wearing only a breech cloth, even more revealing than the trunks seen on American beaches.

Deep Affection Binds

Elizabeth to Queen Mary

LONDON—The deep affection between Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary precludes any reference in court circles to the possibility of mother-in-law trouble.

In fact, Elizabeth is the Queen Mother's favorite daughter-in-law, the girl she would have picked for her second son and the type of woman she would have liked the duke of Windsor to marry, high circles say.

Elizabeth is well aware that she owes a great deal to Queen Mary since she ascended the throne, and the British court today is a happy, peaceful home.

Reports published abroad that the two queens do not agree over the education of the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret, and about the management of Buckingham palace are flatly and emphatically denied by all quarters in which such a delicate question could be broached.

First In Winter Concerts Tuesday

MARJORIE EDWARDS

This year the Cooperative Concert Association is opening the 1938-39 series of concerts in a most unusual manner. Two soloists of distinction, both belonging to the youth of today, will provide the evening's music. The first concert will be on Tuesday evening beginning promptly at 8:30 o'clock at the Kingston High School auditorium. All members are asked to bring their tickets with them, and are reminded that no one will be seated during the playing of a number or the movement of a number.

Fifteen-year-old Marjorie Edwards, violin genius, will be one of the artists. Born in San Jose, Marjorie began her musical studies at the age of seven years and her teacher was so impressed with her extraordinary talent that arrangements were made for her to study with Kathleen Parlow, famous virtuoso and teacher. Three years ago she made her first San Francisco appearance before a large audience gathered at the Veterans' Auditorium. The San Francisco papers could scarcely believe in their praise of her playing.

Because Miss Parlow, her teacher, was brought to Pittsfield to take the first violin chair of the South Mountain Quartet, the entire Edwards family came east for a summer of intensive work for Marjorie in the Berkshires.

During that summer the young violinist had an opportunity to play the Tchaikovsky Concerto under the baton of Henry Hadley at the Berkshire Symphony Festival. She was the sensation of the entire festival and a result gave a recital at the Pittsfield Auditorium. There before a packed house she created a furor. A year and a half ago Marjorie made her New York debut at the Town Hall where she was greeted enthusiastically. Ezra Rachlin, whom a European critic recently called "The Helphetz of the piano," and who is considered by many as the most brilliant of America's younger piano artists, will be the other artist in this first concert. He is known on both sides of the Atlantic, having studied in Berlin until he was 12 years old when the family returned to America. The following year the young musician gave his first recital in Carnegie Hall, scoring a sensational success. Later he appeared as soloist with the Manhattan Symphony Orchestra under Henry Hadley of New York, after which he resumed his studies, this time at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. During this time Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, inaugurated a new series of concerts called "Youth Concerts," and Ezra Rachlin was chosen from 6,000 contestants to play the Liszt A Major Concerto with this famous orchestra and conductor. Later he played the Rachmaninoff Third Concerto in New York with the Cleveland Orchestra, Sokolof conducting. Since that time Rachlin has been established as a mature artist of the virtuoso order, adding most successful concerts in London, Milan, Rome, Vienna, Budapest, Warsaw, Stockholm and Amsterdam to his imposing list of American triumphs.

The Cooperative Concert Association would remind its members of the arrangements for attending and leaving the high school. Those driving their autos are asked to discharge their passengers at the uptown side entrance to the school and to await them after the concert on the downtown side entrance, leaving the main entrance for those in chauffeur driven autos or taxis both arriving and departing.

The following is the program of the concert to be given on Tuesday evening:

Etiquette Opens Door To Social Success

Know the Code that Wins

Doug and Helen — welcome guests wherever they go—and they go everywhere!

What's the secret? Why are some people always invited out while others sit glumly at home? Invitations go to those who have learned how to be charming, smooth-mannered guests. Here are a few tips:

Respond to introductions with a smiling "How-do-you-do." Don't embarrass that absent-minded chap who doesn't remember you with "Oh I met you before."

When you get a written invitation sit right down and answer it.

Visiting a friend for a few days? Consult her before making engagements on your own during your stay.

You are unable to entertain the friend who has had you to dinner? Send her flowers.

Leave-takings? Say, "It's been such fun." Don't linger at the door.

Do you know how to accept compliments? Who gets out of an automobile first? Our 32-page booklet gives today's etiquette code for visiting, dining, dancing, traveling, bridge. How to be a gracious hostess.

Send 10c for your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR ALL OCCASIONS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

THE MISERY OF HIS OWN BEGINS TO GO

When you just do this:

Massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warm cloth. (No dosing, no stomach upsets.)

VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action goes right to work—direct through the skin like a poultice, while its medicated vapors released by the body warmth are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This two-way action (inhalation and stimulation) loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—and he soon feels comfortable again.

Long after he relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. And often by morning the worst of his cold is over. No wonder 3 out of 5 mothers put faith in VapoRub whenever anyone in the family has a cold!

HOME BUREAU

Conducts Conferences
Miss Charlotte Brennan, housing specialist from the State College of Home Economics, has been conducting a series of living and dining room conferences this past week in various parts of Ulster county in connection with the Ulster County Home Bureau program.

Miss Brennan works on the assumption that comfort for each member of the family should be paramount in the planning of furniture. Two and one-half to three hours is necessary to complete a conference. The housing leader in each unit and those particularly interested in having their room rearranged attended the meetings. Similar conferences will be conducted by unit leaders in other homes in the community.

This week both dining and living room conferences were held at Forest Glen and Walkkill, and living-room conferences at Woodstock and Modena. A special meeting on curtains and drapes was conducted by Miss Brennan at Walkkill as their special reward for increased membership in 1938.

Cake Sale Brought $53

The sum of $53 was raised by the cake sale held by the Kingston Branch of the American League for Peace and Democracy, and this money will be used in purchasing milk for the starving children in Spain.

MURDERED?

U.C.T. Hold Its Annual Dinner

The annual Class Day dinner and dance of Kingston Council, No. 356, United Commercial Travelers of America, was held Saturday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel with Past Supreme Counselor R. H. Davis of Binghamton as the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Davis spoke at length on the aims of the order and urged a larger membership.

During the evening Zucca's orchestra rendered a musical program for the dinner and also furnished the music for the dancing that followed.

Past Grand Counselor William G. Merritt of this city on behalf of the council presented Charles R. Abbott of Sayre, a member of the grand executive committee, with a traveling bag.

Clarence B. Mullen, senior counselor, presided at the dinner and Edward S. Morris was toastmaster. Among those introduced were Assemblyman J. Edward Conway who became a member of the local council that evening and Sheriff Abram Molyneux, who has been a member of the council for many years.

Among the guests of the council at the dinner were Grand Secretary Harry Johnson and wife of Middletown; Past Grand Counselor George H. Merkle of Brooklyn, who is a former resident of this city.

The committee who arranged for the annual Class Day were Edward S. Morris, Charles R. Abbott, William C. Dutton, Patrick T. Murphy, James W. Abbott and Clarence B. Mullen.

Past Supreme Counselor Davis in his address called attention to the fine work the organization was doing in this country and Canada, and urged that the local council form a Ladies' Auxiliary.

He spoke particularly of the work being done among the widows and orphans of members of the organization, and said that at the present time 600 widows and their children were being taken care of by the widows and orphans fund. By this means families were kept together.

New York state, which had held third place in membership for years, was now in fourth place, and he saw no reason for it as there were many men eligible for membership in the organization and he believed they would be glad to become members if they were asked to do so.

The officers of Kingston Council are: Senior counselor, Clarence B. Mullen; junior counselor, Lester O. Reynolds; past counselor, Morlin R. Snyder; conductor, Fred L. Kolts; secretary and treasurer, William C. Dutton; page, C. Russell Edwards; sentinel, Ward W. Inglesbe; and chaplain, W. Frank Davis.

The members of the executive committee were Charles R. Abbott, Patrick T. Murphy and Fred C. Lang.

Wives Were "Property"
Wedding rings were their origin to the days when men owned their wives and treated them as slaves! It was the pagan custom to place a ring on the bride's finger as a symbol of possession—a reminder that the wife was the husband's property. The earliest existing rings, says London Answers magazine, are those found in the tombs of ancient Egypt, but probably rings have been worn from the very earliest of times. Their use obtained the sanction of the church during the Eleventh century. As to why wedding rings and engagement rings are worn on the third finger of the left hand, there is a popular belief that a nerve in this finger communicates with the heart.

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary Gives Report of Activities

A report of various activities throughout the year is given in a report of the secretary of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary released for publication today.

The report follows:
The Kingston Hospital Auxiliary held seven regular meetings during the year, with Mrs. Frederick Snyder presiding. The average attendance has been good.

There are 188 paid members to date. The annual report of the treasurer was given.

Several new members were received during the year, and welcomed by the president and members. Four members died as follows: Our first vice president, Mrs. T. J. Hickey, Mrs. Conrad E. Hasbrouck, a former treasurer, Mrs. J. Charles Snyder and Mrs. Walter Steiner.

The social activities were as follows:
The Auxiliary tendered a banquet at the Governor Clinton Hotel, with entertainment, October 16 last, to the graduates of the nursing school, which was very much enjoyed and appreciated.

The hospital dance, held February 5, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, was a decided success in every way, and the funds netted from this affair carried our work through until the present, with out holding the annual card party in June. (It is needless to add that the dinner parties held previous to the dance had much to do with its success.)

The committee who had charge of the dance, together with the president, were: Mrs. Parker K. Brinler, Mrs. R. Frederic Childsey, Mrs. John B. Krom, Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever and Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt.

Plans were made to refurbish flooring for first and third floors of the hospital; flooring to be in rubber tile, same as second floor. This committee was headed by Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt, George A. Howells and Mrs. Harold L. Rakov.

The Auxiliary purchased 10 Spring Air mattresses, compartment style; a new stretcher and a rubber cover for the same.

The Sewing and cutting committee, of which Mrs. Arthur H. Wicks is chairman, reported a very busy year's work, completing 1,274 pieces in all; report in full to follow.

President appointed Miss Margaret Treadwell to serve as co-chairman on this committee.

Flowers, through the generosity of Mrs. Shufeldt were placed on all the patients' trays, Thanksgiving Day. Each year Mrs. Shufeldt has donated and personally arranged these flowers, and the patients are always cheered by this act of thoughtfulness and artistry on her part.

The Christmas trees in the wards were donated by Mrs. Shufeldt, also; and the tree in the children's ward was given by Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever, as in former years.

Mrs. John B. Krom was chairman of Christmas decorations in Hospital, and, together with her committee placed wreaths, holly, etc., in the building, appropriate to the holiday season, bringing a lot of cheer to those confined in bed.

The Auxiliary gave permission to the Curtis Publishing Co., to solicit subscriptions for various magazines. A neat amount for the Auxiliary was netted again this year, and the Auxiliary expresses gratitude to the many who subscribed.

The Nominating Committee, appointed by the president were Mrs. Parker K. Brinler, Mrs. Frederic Scott Carr and Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever, who presented the following slate of officers for the coming year:

Mrs. Frederick Snyder, president; Mrs. George W. Ross, first vice president; Mrs. Alex B. Shufeldt, second vice president; Mrs. R. Frederic Childsey, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever, treasurer.

Election was held at the September meeting, and these officers were unanimously elected to office for the year 1938-1939.

At this time the members of the auxiliary wish to thank the Kingston Daily Freeman for its splendid co-operation throughout the year; also, we express our thanks to the members of the different committees, who have worked earnestly to the completion of the work so necessary to the hospital; to the many individuals and organizations who assisted in the huge amount of sewing and cutting that was accomplished.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of the aforesaid members, copy sent to each family of deceased, and also spread upon the minutes, in full.

This year we are asking if there are any friends who care to join the Auxiliary and aid in this most worthy work, to kindly call any of the officers, and we also wish to extend an invitation to attend the monthly meetings held the last Tuesday of each month at the Nurses Home on Broadway at 2:30 p. m. A society is only as good as its individual members make it. We need members and a hearty welcome awaits you.

We wish to express our gratitude to Miss Jessie P. Allan, superintendent, and Miss Almenna H. Porter, principal of School of Nursing, for their hospitality to the members at each and every meeting.

Resolutions

Since our last meeting, this Auxiliary has sustained severe loss in the death of our first vice president, Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey, Mrs. Conrad E. Hasbrouck, a former treasurer; Mrs. J. Charles Snyder and Mrs. Walter Steiner.

Both Mrs. Hickey and Mrs. Hasbrouck were charter members, whose loyalty never wavered, nor whose interest lessened.

Until recent illness Mrs. Hickey rarely missed a meeting, and no duty to which she was assigned. Both Mrs. Hickey and Mrs. Hasbrouck had been associated with the Auxiliary since its organization.

In 1891, Mrs. Hickey was one of a group of women, active in the organizing of the auxiliary, who met with others to secure funds for the proposed hospital. This was an achievement, and a splendid piece of work. She held many offices, the second vice presidency, and at the time of her death was the first vice president of the Auxiliary. She was also secretary to the former late president, Mrs. F. J. R. Clarke, and chairman of the membership committee.

Mrs. Conrad E. Hasbrouck was treasurer of the Auxiliary for many years. When Mrs. Charles Tappan was president.

The present members can also recall what an indefatigable worker Mrs. J. Charles Snyder was, and whereas Mrs. Walter Steiner did not attend meetings frequently, she was always willing and ready to do her share.

It is most fitting that we honor their memory today at our first meeting, and therefore be it resolved, that we record our sincere regret in their passing, and extend to their families our deepest sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, that the secretary send a copy to each of the families, and spread same upon the minutes in full.

Signed,
Mrs. Frederick Snyder, President.
Mrs. George W. Ross, First Vice President.
Mrs. R. Frederic Childsey, Secretary.
Mrs. Harold L. Rakov, Treasurer.

Miss Jessie P. Allan, Superintendent and Miss Almenna H. Porter, Principal of School of Nursing.

The following is the annual report for 1938 ending September of the chairman of the sewing and cutting committee:

Mission Founding Will Be Observed

THE REV. JAMES CANTINE

The Golden Milestone Service, commemorating the founding of the Arabian Mission of the Reformed Church will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Fair Street Reformed Church. The Rev. James Cantine, one of the founders of the mission will be the principal speaker.

Dr. Cantine was ordained in the local church October 10, 1889, and shortly thereafter set sail for Arabia. Others who had been students at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and who began the work with him, were the Revs. P. T. Phelps and S. M. Zwemer.

Since his return from Arabia, Dr. Cantine has been residing in Stone Ridge. He has not been leading a retired life however, since he has been in demand by numerous churches of the area. He has also supplied pulpits in many churches throughout the east.

During the readjustments in missionary work following the World War a union of forces was completed and that of the Presbyterian Church joined the Reformed Church group at Baghdad. In 1923 the mission became known as the United Mission in Mesopotamia. Dr. Cantine was also active in the formation of this group. He became emiratus in 1927.

Although he has witnessed few conversions to Christianity in his 36 years of missionary work among the Arabs, Dr. Cantine says this fact is no criterion. The work, he says, should be judged by the impact which Christianity has made upon Mohammedanism as a whole.

Ward Club to Meet
